CDFA Announces End to VND in Southern California

The Department of Food and Agriculture has announced an end to the Virulent Newcastle Disease (VND) quarantine in Southern California. Extensive testing of the regulated area has been completed, with no additional detections of the disease. This means that poultry may now move freely within California. VND was first detected in May of 2018 in Los Angeles County and by December, the disease spread extensively in backyard poultry.

Resource for Industry - CDFA Safe Animal Feed Education (SAFE) Program

The Safe Animal Feed Education \(SAFE\) program of California uses outreach, education, and a comprehensive Voluntary Quality Assurance program to lead the nation in ensuring a safe and wholesome supply of commercial feed. SAFE uses an approach that fosters voluntary compliance with the state laws and regulations to ensure the safe manufacture and use of commercial feed in a changing livestock feed market. This unique collaboration between SAFE and the feed industry benefits both the agricultural community and the consumer.
